Happy New Year...

I trust you enjoyed reading through the New Testament during the latter part of 2018. As you have heard it said many times, daily Scripture reading is incredibly important for God's people. Thom Rainer recently put it this way: "Regardless of your work... you must first be fueled by the Word of God in everything you do. You could do some great things in 2019, but it won't matter if it's done in your own power and wisdom instead of through that of the Spirit working in you."

With that in mind, let me challenge you to continue to the practice of daily Bible reading that you have already established. Specifically, let me challenge you to join me in reading through the entire Bible in 2019. Every month, we will publish a Bible reading plan for that month in the newsletter. Copies will also be available in the church.

The plan is a straightforward plan that starts in Genesis and ends in Revelation—no skipping around! The plan requires you to read three chapters a day and five chapters on Sunday. To shepherd your reading along, I will dedicate the first Sunday in each month to preaching on the current passage, regardless of whatever other series I might be following in the pulpit. So while you are reading through the Bible, I will also be preaching through the Bible on those first Sundays!

You'll find the January 2019 reading plan here in the January Newsletter.
